

Lewis Brown Griggs

Why do so many of us focus on the story of our shortcomings?

How can our uniqueness be recognized as the greatest gift we bring to one another?

Through his lives and near deaths, Lewis Brown Griggs shares transformational perspectives on how our weaknesses can become our greatest strengths, and he has a remarkable personal story as well. Born of direct Mayflower heritage into privileged American aristocracy, his lifestyle reflected that ethnocentric value system. During the first of his two death experiences, Lewis discovered that we are on earth to fulfill a particular purpose, and that he had not been on the right path. He was told that he must return to earth to teach people to appreciate diversity in our common humanity. Since then, his work has included teaching corporations that valuing diversity, relationship and spirit maximizes organizational effectiveness. To learn more about the work Lewis was guided to do, visit his website at. www.griggs.com

This internationally recognized speaker will be sharing his story at the IANDS-SF meeting on Tuesday, May 20th from 7:30 to 9:30, at Golden Gate Spiritualist Church, 1901 Franklin, San Francisco, CA, 94109.

You can get a preview of this speaker by watching his Dec 19, 2012 TEDx presentation on video entitled The Gift of Near Death at this URL:

http://www.youtube.com/watch?feature=player_detailpage&v=bi_QsbnrTXo